

REVIEW OF TRADE.

A Week of Ragged Experience in the Stock Market.

THE PROFESSIONAL OPERATORS

SEEM TO HAVE PREFERRED THE "BEAR" SIDE OF TRANSACTIONS—THE CONDITION OF THE MARKET THE NATURAL RESULT OF THE HAPPENINGS OF THE LAST THREE WEEKS—THE RECENT DRIFF, HOWEVER, HAS SHOWN MORE RECUPERATIVE FORCE THAN IS GENERALLY ACKNOWLEDGED—FIRM TONE IN WOOL MARKET.

Special Correspondence.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—We have had another ragged week in Wall street, though with no important net change in the prices of stocks. Transactions have been confined very largely to professional operators, most of whom, for the moment, seem to prefer the "bear" side, as best suited to the current mood of operators. One feature in the operations of the pessimists deserves attention as a significant symptom. They do not care to risk large sales, and refrain from anything approaching an oversold condition of the market. There is reason for this, as there are still "bulls" whose interests are large enough to induce them to make reprisals upon a "short" interest big enough to make it worth the powder.

The condition of the market is a natural result of the happenings of the last three weeks. The great realizations of influential operators have produced a timid feeling; which, in spite of the conviction that the prices of stocks are intrinsically moderate, causes hesitation and the postponement of buying. Many operators are discouraged and enfeebled at the loss of their previous profits; and, beyond the continuance of the recovery of business and the increase of railroad earnings, there are no new elements to revive "bull" enthusiasm. Moreover, there have been causes for the deferment of operations, which have appealed to the "bulls" great and small, perhaps especially to the former. The election has been a diversive element, and some people have been led to think that its result may have an effect upon confidence in financial interests. The new phase of the Cuban question has given occasion for new fears that we might be drawn into serious embroilments with Spain. Some have attached an undue importance to the Nebraska railroad suit, although it directly concerns only state interests. Others have looked with mistrust to the opening of Congress; though just for what reasons has not been made clear. In none of these things has there been any sufficient ground for real apprehension; but, put together, they have sufficed, in the late timid and unsettled state of the market, to afford an excuse for the deferment of transactions. Large operators, however, convinced that values are on a scale that would admit of an upward movement, are naturally always indisposed to start a campaign in the presence of a cloud on the horizon, though it may be no bigger than a man's hand, and especially when there is, as at present, an absence of any new inspiration. Thus, we have easily come to pass the time we have had a spiritless and neglected market for the last three weeks; and the "bears" have not been slow to turn it to account. This, however, is but a natural after-phase of a great realizing movement and it takes time to recover from the effects of such a reaction.

The recent drift of the market has, however, shown more recuperative force than is generally acknowledged. In our financial review of two weeks ago, it was shown that prices at that time averaged twelve and one-fourth points below the highest figures of September 17th, when values were at the highest. The following list of the same stocks, showing the highest prices on September 17th and the lowest on October 27th, will indicate the change that has occurred within the last two weeks:

	Sept. 17.	Oct. 27.	Decline.
A. T. & S. F. pf.	35 1/4	29 1/4	6
Central of New Jersey	10 1/2	9 1/2	1
Chesapeake & Ohio	26 1/4	21 1/4	5
Chi. & Quincy	10 1/2	9 1/2	1
Del. & Hudson	10 1/2	9 1/2	1
Ill. & Northwestern	12 1/4	12 1/4	0
Rock Island	10 1/2	9 1/2	1
C. C. & St. Louis	4 1/4	3 1/4	1
Del. & Lackawanna	12 1/4	11 1/4	1
Delaware & Hudson	10 1/2	9 1/2	1
Erie	18 1/4	15 1/4	3
Illinois Central	10 1/2	9 1/2	1
Louisville & Nashville	12 1/4	11 1/4	1
Mo., Kan. & Texas	10 1/2	9 1/2	1
Missouri Pacific	20 1/4	19 1/4	1
N. Y. Ont. & Western	20 1/4	19 1/4	1
Reading	20 1/4	19 1/4	1
Amer. Sugar Refining	15 1/4	14 1/4	1
Chicago Gas	10 1/2	9 1/2	1
W. Va. Tele. & Tel. Co.	10 1/2	9 1/2	1

The present averaging decline in these twenty stocks since September 17th is eight and one-fourth points; and as the fall on October 13th was twelve and one-fourth, it follows that, within the last two weeks, there has been an average recovery of four points. This has happened pending a dull and unhelpful condition of the market and therefore has been little noticed; but it is not the less a fact; and it shows that, through all the late prevailing misgivings, there has been a substantial recovery going forward.

Conditions appear to be drifting gradually towards further recovery, though the movement may be gradual and attended with considerable irregularity in prices. The sentimental influences we have noted as having held the market in timid suspense for the last three weeks are becoming staid and losing their effect. The result of the election, whichever way it may go, is not expected to produce anything more than a slight temporary flurry. The misgivings in respect to the opening of Congress are so intangible or imaginary that no one cares to mention them as a serious factor affecting securities; and the feeling resolves itself into one of curiosity rather than anxiety. The yellow fever is now a measured quantity, affecting a few railroads but of no general importance, and verging towards extinction by the approach of the period of frost. The great financial settlement connected with the Union Pacific Railroad, which has been looked to as possibly involving a sharp disturbance in the money market, is now found to be disposed of without any such inconvenience, and the final net increase of cash in the treasury will not exceed $2,000,000. The decision on the Nebraska case has been postponed, it is supposed until after the elections; from which it is inferred that the verdict of the court will be in favor of the railroad.

The latest developments in the Cuban situation, are taken as a whole, construed favorably. The text of the reply of the Spanish government to Minister Woodford's representations has not been made public, and apparently is not likely to be published until the document is presented to Congress. From such press reports as have come from Madrid—which, however, were based upon the first draft of the reply and not the final document—it seems probable that the answer is firm and candid, yet courteous and moderate in tone and contains important explanations as to the political reforms which it is proposed to introduce immediately in Cuba. The statements just made by the Spanish minister at Washington, however, are more authoritative than foreign press summaries; and it is to be supposed that they harmonize with the spirit of the reply of his government to Mr. Woodford. His explicit statements as to the system of local government which it is proposed to grant to Cuba are very important and have produced here a more favorable impression as to the disposition of the home government to deal liberally with the colony than anything that has yet been forthcoming from Spain. The terms offered more to the Cubans than the conservative cabinet has ever tendered, if not as much as the colonists could reasonably expect. This is an attitude which the American people will respect and with which they are already much gratified, as suggesting new possibilities of a settlement of this harassing question. It is possible that some time may elapse before the Cubans can be brought to accept anything short of absolute independence; but so long as our government sees Spain willing to grant a really large measure of self-rule, it is not likely to be unreasonable in allowing a due interval for inaugurating the proposed new order of things. From these new developments it is fairly inferable that the next step in our relations with Spain will be to assume a waiting attitude rather than a hastening policy which might precipitate needless quarrel. This question is therefore, likely to become less acute in its bearing on Wall street interests than it has recently been. HENRY CLEWS.

Wool. Bradstreets: The market maintains a firm tone, but general transactions are quiet, compared with a few weeks since. There has been more inquiry during the past few days, but manufacturers are mostly bidding a trifle off from the market. Concessions of one-half cent on greasy territory wools would have moved some large lines, but holders would not give way. Fleece wools have met with small sale, but a bid of 30c for No. 1 Ohio has been refused for a large line. For XX and above Ohio washed, with delaine in, 30c is asked. Territory wools are yet quotable at 50c for fine medium and fine secured with medium at 45c. Staple lots will go higher. Australian wool is held firm, but sales are less. Some large lines of carpet wools have been cleaned up to manufacturers, including Cordova and Scotch wools. Considerable importations of the latter have been made of late. The carpet trade is looking better with manufacturers.

Warning to Workmen.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer. SIR:—I notice in the Columbus Record, what purports to be an interview with W. T. Lewis, in which he is represented as being a power in Republican politics and a friend and admirer of McKinley, yet, through dislike for M. A. Hanna, he is willing to sacrifice and swamp the Republicans at the polls next Tuesday. Now, don't the stand he takes savour of grapes? Don't it appear to you that a man who serves the party is office? The average Republican, self-respecting workman, has too much good sense to follow the lead of such men. A great hue and cry is made about the drift of Republican vote to the Democratic party. Their champions do not preach more work or better times, but appeal to the baser nature of men in arousing prejudice and arraying the masses against the classes, and, as Mark Hanna tersely puts it, such men should be sent to the penitentiary. One other weak point they attempt to work on is that organized workmen should support workmen's candidates. We agree with them in that, but when workmen are accepted by either the Republican or Democratic party they are obligated to abide by and be governed by the party in caucus, and when they accept such conditions they become the willing tools to oppress the workman. If their party in caucus so decides and while any workman votes for a candidate upon the Democratic ticket, he should do so knowing that he is casting Democratic ballot, and in no sense that of a workman's party. When this view of the question is taken, the slump on Tuesday next will be a great disappointment to the Democratic leaders, as well as the sore-head Republicans. Let every Republican workman scorn the proposition to vote for any man who would thus attempt to mislead him. WORKMAN. Bridgeport, O., Oct. 21.

Hon. E. M. Turner on George.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer. SIR:—In your editorial of this date on Henry George's death, you say: "There gathered to George's support the socialistic elements attracted by his single tax theories, and his socialistic teachings." You have read Mr. George to very little profit if you mean to imply that his economic and social philosophy is founded on socialism. Nothing could be farther from the truth. Mr. George's philosophy assumes as a fundamental axiom, that whatever a man produces by his labor, whether of hand or brain, is the subject of private ownership or property. Another postulate is, that the earth, meaning all natural elements, including the soil, being the common source of human life, cannot be made the subject of private ownership—in other words, cannot become the property of any man, but may be used by him exclusively, by paying to the community a rent for such use.

We may agree or not with his doctrines, but it is grossly unjust to him to say that he was in any sense a socialist. On the contrary, he was always the relentless foe of the things that are doing more than all things else to develop socialism in this country, namely, monopolies, syndicates, trusts and class legislation. Railroad Engineer

Testifies to Benefits Received From Dr. Miles' Remedies.

THERE is no more responsible position on earth than that of a railroad engineer. On his steady nerves, clear brain, bright eye and perfect self command, depend the safety of the train and the lives of its passengers. Dr. Miles' Nervine and other remedies are especially adapted to keeping the nerves steady, the brain clear and the mental faculties unimpaired. Engineer F. W. McCoy, formerly of 1223 Broadway, Council Bluffs, but now residing at 3411 Humboldt St., Denver, writes that he "suffered for years from constipation, causing sick, nervous and bilious headaches, and was fully restored to health by Dr. Miles' Nervine & Liver Pills. I heartily recommend Dr. Miles' Remedies." Dr. Miles' Remedies are sold by all druggists under a positive guarantee, first bottle benefits or money refunded. Book on diseases of the heart and nerves free. Address, DR. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

GERMANY TO RETALIATE

On the United States in regard to the Tariff—The Dingley Bill Hits that Country Hard.

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—The new German ambassador to the United States, Dr. von Holleben, recently Prussian minister to Wurtemberg, and formerly (1892-93) German minister to the United States, left Berlin Wednesday last, to spend a fortnight on his family's estate previous to his departure for America on board the North German Lloyd steamer, Wilhelm der Grosse, November 9. He has received several unusual marks of distinction during the week, and the King of Wurtemberg has conferred his highest decoration upon him, the Grand Cross of the Order of the Crown.

Before Dr. von Holleben left this city he was interviewed, as his mission is of special importance, in view of several questions in which the two countries are involved, notably the tariff and the Samoan question. In the course of this conversation, the newly appointed ambassador said:

"I have been dosed with sugar in Berlin. I mean, of course, the remonstrances of our sugar men against the unfavorable sugar import provisions of the Dingley tariff, and explanations and technical discussions on that topic that I have had to listen to at the various ministries. The sugar question, I am sure, is what interests us most, and vitally strikes us the hardest in the new tariff, and against that breach of our existing treaty with the United States vigorous protests will, of course, be renewed."

"As yet it is too early to tell exactly in which branches of industry the Dingley tariff most affects German export. Another three months must elapse before that can be determined, but I am quite certain that many of its provisions hit us hard. These questions I consider, and so does my government, as being of the first importance. The Samoan and other questions are comparatively secondary. It is fortunate that the United States is represented here by so able and well-meaning a man as Mr. White. In going to America I go to a field I know by previous experience with the best of intentions, and by that I mean to the intentions of my government."

As to what his instructions were regarding the conclusion of reciprocity treaties with the United States Dr. von Holleben would not give a direct answer, but he intimated that in a general way he was instructed to open negotiations. He said he was personally acquainted with both John A. Kasson, the new special commissioner on reciprocity treaties, appointed by President McKinley, and with Mr. Kasson's secretary, Chapman Coleman, for many years secretary of the United States legation in Berlin.

In the meanwhile the German government has continued to ignore the announcement made by the United States embassy that the latter is ready to open negotiations on the subject of reciprocity, and neither has the government replied to the protests of the United States embassy against the exclusion from Germany of American live cattle and fresh beef. The embassy, in fact, expected no direct answer to either of these representations, but it believes Dr. von Holleben will carry with him the answers.

At the request of the foreign office Consul General Goldschmidt has furnished complete figures regarding the exports to the United States during the past two trimesters. In regard to the demand of the German bicycle manufacturers for an increase in the duty on American wheels the correspondent understands that a movement is on foot to comply with it. Hitherto American wheels have been admitted into Germany under the tariff schedule governing imports of iron and steel, whereas in the near future they will be, under a reclassification, graded as vehicles, on which duty may be put as high as 150 marks.

In connection with the Bavarian Diet's motion to terminate the most favored nation clause of the treaty with the United States, it is pointed out that the Bundesrath alone has the power to settle the question, and it is added that reports credit the Bundesrath with favoring the abrogation; but thus far Prussia opposes it in spite of strong agrarian pressure, while Saxony and Bavaria and some of the smaller states favor the abrogation. The Liberal and commercial newspapers declare such a step would be deplorable, and refer to the renewed demands of the United States for the withdrawal of the prohibition against importation of American beef and cattle as being "a piece of characteristic impudence."

PASSING PLEASANTRIES

"Did you ever catch your husband flirting?" "Yes; that's the way I caught him." —Pick-Me-Up.

He—Darling, was there ever a love like ours? She—Well, not in my experience, at least.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Hendry—So, you take stock in that yarn? Why, I wouldn't believe that story if I told it myself. Cowgate—Well, in that case, neither would I.—Boston Transcript.

Mr. Gowens—Great Heavens! In addition to this confounded bill, I believe I am in for an attack of toothache. Mrs. Gowens—Oh, how nice to have your troubles all at once!—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Mr. Absentminded—It is pretty cold in here.

Barber—Yes, sir; it is chilly this morning.

Mr. Absentminded—If you have no objection, I'll keep on my hat while you are cutting my hair.—London Tit-Bits.

Robert—I see in the papers that there are germs in bills.

Richard—Great Scott! Is that so? I must give directions at home that when Dunwell comes again with that little bill to tell him I do not consider it safe to receive it.—Boston Transcript.

Mr. Dearborn—How are you getting along with your new wife?

Mr. Washburn—Oh, there's trouble already.

"What's wrong?"

"Why, she insists on having a new wheel, and I think the one my last wife had is good enough."—Yonkers Statesman.

"Yes, dear, I met your father, and told him that I wanted to talk with him as one man with another."

"And—"

"Well, that was the kind of talk I got. With all the temper he has, I am sure he would never have used such language in talking to a woman."—Indianapolis Journal.

THE SAME OLD STORY.

Told on the Streets of Wheeling the Same as Elsewhere.

Some things you cannot tell too often. Repetition gives them added strength. The same old story is pleasant to hear. When it brings happiness to home. Brings joy to the afflicted.

Tells how burdens can be raised. How the back can be relieved—

All the pains and aches removed; Proves how easily it's done.

Wheeling people tell this story. Friends and neighbors talk of it. They tell about their kidney ills.

How they suffered—how the cures came.

What they think of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here is what a citizen says:

Name Mrs. George M. Deiters, address No. 26 South Huron Street, says: "I have suffered for several years with my back brought on by an attack of La Grippe characterized by severe aching pains across the small of my back and through my right thigh; bearing down pains in the bladder; numbness and aching of the ankles; often worse when lying down; and often when in bed I would be so stiff I could hardly turn over or get out of it. I felt tired and depressed all the time, especially in the mornings and could not sit still for any length of time without wanting to go to sleep. I saw so many favorable accounts of Doan's Kidney Pills that I concluded they would help me. I got a box at the Logan Drug Company, and began their use. I felt relieved after the first few doses and was encouraged to continue their use, which I did with splendid results. My sister was visiting me at the time and being troubled as I was she took some on my recommendation and they helped her right away. I have recommended them to many of my friends and if ever troubled in that way again would use nothing else."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers, price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—DOAN'S—and take no other.
